

BLUE HEAVEN iKABLE

Whether through facilitating access to our music libraries, upgrading the caliber of sound or simply mobilizing a once stationary practice, the portable audio device has transformed the way in which we enjoy music. The convenience of these new technological advances has not easily swayed true audiophiles when it comes at the expense of quality. Thankfully, the new Blue Heaven LS iKable now makes it possible to enjoy hifi quality sound from your portable audio devices.

The new Blue Heaven LS iKable combines silver-plated, OFC solid core conductors with Nordost's innovative precision FEP extrusion technology, greatly reducing dielectric properties in order to increase signal speeds and accuracy in signal transfer. The result is a detailed and dynamic reproduction of your digital music files that has previously been impossible to achieve at this price point.

Nordost has built a reputation as a reliable and progressive company, always on the cutting edge, finding new solutions to improve the science of sound reproduction. Thanks to its philosophy of trickle-down technology, it is now possible to enjoy the benefits from years of research and development in Nordost's reasonably priced, Leif products.

The Blue Heaven LS iKable is the perfect solution for today's modern hifi enthusiast. It is made specifically for auxiliary inputs in aftermarket radios, car and home audio stereos and is compatible with all portable audio devices. Whether applied in your car or home audio system, the elevated performance achieved from your portable devices will be exceptional.
